Please see section 10 for further information on our complaints process.

2 About this Privacy Policy

Please read this privacy policy alongside our Terms.

We take your privacy seriously. This policy explains:

- How we use your personal information;
- How we keep it safe; and
- What your rights are.

It also tells you how to contact us if you have any questions, complaints or feedback.

This policy may be updated from time to time. The latest version will always be available on our platform.

If you’d prefer a copy sent to you, just get in touch using the contact details above.

We can also provide this policy in large print, braille or spoken word. To request an alternative format please get in touch using the details above.

3 What information do we collect about you?

To provide our services and meet legal requirements, we may collect the following information about you:

Personal details

- Your name
- Gender
- Date of birth
- Nationality
- Home address
- Personal email address
- Telephone number

Employment and tax information

- Your employment status (e.g. if you're working overseas and applying for an ISA)
- Whether you or your spouse are a Crown employee (e.g. diplomat or armed forces)
- Corporate directorships or trustee roles (if applying on behalf of a company, trust or charity)
- Country where you pay tax
- National identifier (e.g. National Insurance number)

Relationships

- Details about your relationship with others, if needed to provide our services (e.g. spouse, partner, parents, children, grandchildren, or Power of Attorney/trust arrangements)
- For Junior ISAs, we may collect information about a child – but only where we have a lawful reason to do so

Financial and legal information

- Information to confirm your identity and the source of your investment funds (to meet anti-fraud, money laundering and anti-terrorism laws)

Health information

- Where necessary for us to provide our services to you (for example you or your doctor may provide us with medical information to support early access to your pension fund if you become seriously ill)

Online usage

When you use our online services, we may automatically collect:

- Your IP address, login details, browser type and version, time zone and operating system
- Information about your visit (e.g. pages viewed, links clicked, searches made, and other interactions)

For further information on our cookie policy please refer to section 11.

4 How do we collect your information?

We collect personal information about you in the following ways:

- When you or your Financial Adviser completes an application – either online or on paper
- When you or your Financial Adviser contacts us – by phone, email or in writing
- When you provide documents to us – such as your driving licence

- When you apply for a Stocks and Shares Junior ISA, we collect information about the child at the application stage

Before you give us personal information about someone else (such as a relative), please make sure they're happy for you to share it with us.

You confirm that all the information you provide is accurate.

5 How will we use your personal information?

We collect, store, share and use the personal information about you so we can:

- Provide the services you've requested
- Meet our contractual obligations to you

We will also use your information when:

- It's necessary to deliver the services you've asked for – for example, sending valuation statements by post (where applicable), or sharing relevant details with your Financial Adviser
- It supports our legitimate interests (or those of a third party), and your rights do not override those interests
- The law allows or requires it, for example:
 - Responding to a section 793 Companies Act request
 - Processing information for a substantial public interest or your vital interests, such as when supporting a vulnerable person

We also process your personal information to meet legal and regulatory obligations – for example, complying with guidance on the fair treatment of vulnerable customers.

When we rely on legitimate interests, whether that be ours or our third parties, these relate to providing our services to you in a secure and efficient way.

We may use your personal information for:

Identity and account management

- Identifying you and linking you to any accounts you hold with us
- Providing access to our online service

Health-related requests

- Processing requests made on medical grounds (e.g. early pension access due to serious illness)

Service updates and administration

- Notifying you about changes to our services
- Providing you with information that may affect you

Insights and analysis

- Carrying out statistical analysis
- Understanding customer needs through market insight and profiling (using aggregated data)

Security and compliance

- Preventing and detecting fraud
- Verifying your identity under anti-money laundering legislation
- Customising our online service to suit your preferences
- Improving our services
- Cooperating with courts, regulators and law enforcement agencies
- Ensuring we meet our legal obligations

We only process your personal information where we have a valid reason to do so – whether that's to fulfil a contract, meet legal requirements, or support our, or our third parties, legitimate interests.

6 Who will have access to your personal information?

Your personal information will only be seen or used by those of our employees who have a legitimate business need to access your personal information for the purposes set out in this privacy policy.

We take your privacy seriously. To protect your personal information, we've put in place appropriate physical, technical and organisational measures. These are designed to prevent accidental loss, destruction or damage, and to guard against unauthorised access, use, alteration or disclosure.

7 Who else might we share your personal information with?

Except as explained in this privacy policy, we will not share your personal information with third parties without your consent unless required to do so by law.

To comply with our legal, statutory and regulatory obligations we may share your personal information with authorities including but not limited to:

- The Financial Conduct Authority (FCA) and other regulatory bodies in the UK and abroad
- The Financial Ombudsman Service
- HMRC and other tax authorities
- Fraud prevention agencies
- Courts and law enforcement agencies

We also share your personal information with third parties who help us deliver our services to you, including:

- Credit reference agencies – to verify your identity and address, where necessary
- Third-party product providers – so they can supply the products you've chosen
- Service providers, such as:
 - Companies that help us send letters to you
 - IT providers who support us or your Financial Adviser
 - Market analysis firms using aggregated and anonymised data for research

In most cases, these third parties can only use your personal information for specific purposes and under our instructions. They are not allowed to use your information for their own purposes. We ensure they handle your data in line with this privacy policy and the law.

We may also share your personal information within M&G plc for any of the purposes listed in Section 5.

If you've appointed a Financial Adviser or Discretionary Fund Manager, we may share your personal information with them and their service providers to help us deliver the services you've requested. Some of these organisations will process your data on our behalf, and in accordance with our instructions, while others will be responsible to you directly for how they use it. You can contact us using the details in Section 1 to find out more.

Transferring your information outside the UK and EEA

We may transfer some of your personal information to countries outside the United Kingdom (UK) and the European Economic Areas (EEA), some of which may not have data protection laws and standards as comprehensive as those in the UK or countries within the EEA. Where information is transferred outside the UK and EEA, we will ensure that this is done only where:

- The destination country has been issued with a data protection 'adequacy' decision by the European Commission and/or the UK Government (as applicable)
- We have contractual terms in place with the recipient which are in a form that the Information Commissioner (or if applicable, equivalent European data protection supervisory authority) has decided adequately safeguards your information; or
- The transfer is otherwise made in a manner which the Information Commissioner (or if applicable, equivalent European data protection supervisory authority) considers adequately safeguards your information

In more limited circumstances, we may need to rely on a derogation (an exemption from or relaxation of a rule or law) under Article 49 of the GDPR e.g where the transfer is necessary to allow us to perform our contractual obligations to you or to perform a contract which is in your interest.

Other disclosures

Notwithstanding the terms of this privacy policy, we may disclose your personal information to third parties:

- In the event that we sell or buy any business or assets, in which case we may disclose your personal information to the prospective seller or buyer of such business or assets
- If we or substantially all of our assets are acquired by a third party, in which case personal information held by us about our clients may be one of the transferred assets
- If we are under a duty to disclose or share your personal information in order to comply with any legal obligation or in order to enforce or to protect the rights, property, or safety of IFDL, our service, our users and any third party we interact with to provide the services

8 How do we protect your personal information?

We take the security of your personal information seriously and have put measures in place to protect it. You can request details of these measures at any time.

We also have procedures to deal with any suspected data security breach. If a breach occurs, we will notify you, and any relevant regulator, where we are legally required to do so.

Please note that while we do our best to protect your personal information, sending data over the internet is not completely secure. We cannot guarantee the security of information transmitted to us online, and you acknowledge that any transmission is at your own risk.

Our online service and Platform may contain links to other websites. We are not responsible for the data policies, procedures or content of those external sites.

9 For how long do we keep your personal information?

We will keep your personal information only for as long as it's needed for the purposes explained in this policy.

If you open an account with us, we will keep your personal information while you remain a customer. After your account is closed, we will retain your information for the period required by applicable law.

If we end our relationship with any third parties, we will ensure they either securely delete your personal information or return it to us.

We (or our approved suppliers) may keep anonymised information about you for statistical purposes – for example, to help us improve our services. This data will not identify you.

10 What are your rights?

You have a number of rights in relation to your personal information. There are circumstances in which your rights may not apply. You have the right to request that we:

- Provide you with a copy of the information we hold about you
 - Update any of your personal information if it is inaccurate or out of date
 - Delete the personal information we hold about you – if we are providing services to you and you ask us to delete personal information we hold about you then we may be unable to continue providing those services to you
 - Restrict the way in which we process your personal information. Please note that if we are providing services to you and you ask us to restrict the processing of personal information we hold about you, we may be unable to continue providing those services to you
 - Stop processing your information if you have valid objections to such processing
 - Transfer your personal information to a third party
- For more information on your rights and how to use them, or if you would like to make any of the requests set out above, please contact us through platformsubjectaccessrequests@mandg.com

We will respond to all such requests within the time period required by law.

Raising a concern or complaint

If you're unhappy with how we use your personal information or how we've handled a request, you can raise a complaint directly with us by contacting us (see below).

If you are submitting a complaint under section 164A of the Data Protection 2018, we will acknowledge the complaint within 30 days and we will handle your complaint in line with applicable laws and regulations. In circumstances where you are not happy with our response to your complaint, you have the right to lodge a complaint with the Information Commissioner's Office (ICO) as noted below. For those falling within EU GDPR's scope, you are able to make a complaint directly to your relevant EU Data Protection Authority without lodging a complaint with us – see below.

11 What are Cookies?

A cookie is a small text file that a website stores on your computer or mobile device. It can be read during future visits to help the website recognise you. For example, so it can remember to log you in automatically next time.

How long cookies stay on your device

- Session cookies: these are temporary and are deleted when you leave the website.
- Persistent cookies: these remain on your device until they expire or you delete them.

If you want to remove cookies already stored on your device, you can do this through your browser settings. Visit your browser's help menu for instructions, or go to aboutcookies.org for more information on how to control and disable cookies.

Note: if you delete cookies while logged in, the system will automatically log you out.

Types of cookies we use

We use different types of cookies for different purposes. Some are essential for the platform to function properly, while others help us improve your experience by collecting information.

The cookies we use are listed below under four categories:

Strictly necessary cookies

These cookies are essential for the platform to function properly. They enable actions you request, such as logging in or navigating securely. Without them, some services may not work as intended.

We use the following strictly necessary cookies:
